The F body (Camaro/Firebird) manual transmissions from the 3.8L/manual transmission cars won't fit. It's more than just the bell housing that is the problem. The five speeds are T5's, but they are different than the T5's in the S series trucks in several dimensions, and they won't easily fit into any S series truck. The shifter is located further back, and the tail shaft housing is different ...
