Jael is a ward of the court sleeping in the church basement until River Bill takes her in--and she survives because of the kindness of strangers, a goodhearted priest, a loving man, and, above all, the voices of women, real and imagined. A first novel.

"Compelling ... Reynolds brings a fresh look, her prose clear and distinct, to the prospect of reinventing one's life" San Francisco Chronicle Book Review.

For years, Dale Brown has interviewed American writers, listening particularly for what they have to say about "wrestling with the sacred" in their writing. In this book, a follow-up to his earlier collection, Of Fiction and Faith, Brown gives readers the opportunity to listen in on his thoughtful conversations with ten contemporary writers. While many of these authors shy away from being labeled "Christian" writers, they all have much truth to tell through their work as they struggle with expressing both faith and doubt. The conversations recorded here offer a fresh dialogue on the power of art to sustain faith in
