They grew up together as the closest of friends... and then more. When Sara Nolan and Jaxon Barlow decided to be together, their relationship as a young couple was consumed by a love that was both passionate and beautiful. Sara had it all when it came to a boyfriend: romance, trust, and a protector of all things bad. Jaxon had given her his bleeding heart for the keeping. The last thing Sara expected was to ruin it all. Falling into a darkness that turned her loving relationship into a chaos of deceit and violence, she walked away from the pain she was inflicting on the man she loved, never seeking to return again. But when Sara is forced to return to her hometown, she didn't anticipate for Jaxon to be there. Nor does she anticipate the change in him; a change so harsh and callous, he is a

Elise I'm obsessed with Aston. He became my addiction the moment I met him at 10 years old. He was my best friend from childhood. He protected me and guided me. I loved him fiercely long before I really understood what love was. We were inseparable. He knew how I felt, and sometimes he would stare at me in ways that made me breathless. But there were boundaries.

Lines that couldn't be crossed. Looks that shouldn't be exchanged. Lips that shouldn't be kissed. We weren't supposed to love each other. Not in that way. Because, you see, Aston was also my adopted brother... Aston Elise was off-limits, a temptation that cursed my existence with this visceral hunger to have her, possess her, and taste her like she was made for me. I was tormented and on the brink of falling. If I stepped over that boundary, if I gave into my want, I wasn't sure I could survive the disappointment of my adopted parents. We would all be affected. Our lives wouldn't be the way it was. That change was irreversible, and the damage would be permanent. It was a scary thought, destroying a foundation and rebuilding it without knowing what it might end up looking like. But my want for her...it sat in the core of me, growing and growing. And want is a dangerous fucking thing. It clouds your judgment, it makes you weak, and I knew...I knew without a doubt, it was only a matter of time before I cracked. Obsession was devotion. Obsession was mania and need. It was a compulsive urge to self-gratify by wanting, and wanting, and wanting 'til it hurt, 'til you could feel it there in your bones, gnawing its way deeper within you. Obsession was my craze for Elise. She was my impulse. My...pulse itself. It wasn't healthy. I knew that. I didn't fucking care either.

Aidan West: I'm a jackass. But you know what? At least I'm willing to admit that. I'm not like these imposters walking around, wearing their false identities to the public. They don their business suits and pretend they're reasonable fair men in the world of cutthroat business. These douchebags will f*ck you over the second your back is turned to them. Not me. I'll f*ck you over while I'm looking straight into your eyes, and I won't hesitate to do it. I'm Aidan f*cking West. The Asshole of the East. I'm greedy and cold, and I take what I want. And what I want since the passenger next to me opened her mouth and uttered the word "f*ck" is to stick my tongue down her throat and taste her. Taste every inch of her. I'm a man that gets what he wants. And what I want is Ivy Montcalm. The black- and red-haired girl who shows up in my life, swearing like a pirate, dressed in nothing but short-shorts and a tiny top. She's my quest, and I never let a quest go unfinished. Ivy Montcalm: Aidan West is the most arrogant man I have ever met. He's loaded with charm, has a filthy mouth, and don't get me started on those late night messages! What we have is more than just attraction, though. I fear it's something deeper. I started off as a quest, but I think I'm more than that now. I've never wanted a man more, but I can't have him. Not when my world is in shambles and I'm trying to build the courage to end this toxic chapter of my life and start over. I'm hurting, and he's there for me. I'm lonely and he fills that void. He offers me friendship when I want more. When he wants more, I'm terrified of change. How do you let go of familiarity when it's all you've known? I'm scared I'm not strong enough, and I'm scared Aidan won't be there waiting for me when I finally am. Mister West

A compelling dual-narrated tale from Jennifer Latham that questions how far we've come with race relations. Some bodies won't stay buried. Some stories need to be told. When seventeen-year-old Rowan Chase finds a skeleton on her family's property, she has no idea that investigating the brutal century-old murder will lead to a summer of painful discoveries about the present and the past. In a country rife with violence against blacks and a hometown segregated by Jim Crow, Will must make hard choices on a painful journey towards self discovery and face his inner demons in order to do what's right the night Tulsa burns. Through intricately interwoven alternating perspectives, Jennifer Latham's lightning-paced page-turner brings the Tulsa race riot of 1921 to blazing life and raises important questions about the complex state of US race relations--both yesterday and today.
